Dear Mr Karas,

Cyclone Nargis, a category four storm struck Myanmar on May 2nd, and with winds of over 190 kph inflicted over 10 hours of punishing devastation as it ripped through the delta city of Yangon (estimated population 6 million). It left behind over 23,000 deaths, 42,000 missing and over 1.5 million people affected. On behalf of the hundreds of thousand who are still trying to come to terms with the worst storm to hit their homeland since 1991, thank you for your compassion and kindness.

Nargis flattened homes, damaged more sturdy structures, crippled telecommunications, uprooted trees, downed powerlines, flooded prime agricultural areas and left huge masses of debris blocking roads. The Myanmar Red Cross, with its 27,000 volunteers already on the ground when the storm struck, was among the first to provide desperately needed help. The International Red Cross immediately began moving in stocks of supplies from nearby locations to shattered communities. Despite physical difficulties, complicated by the country's sensitive political nature, basic aid such as clean water, temporary shelters, purification tablets, cooking sets, basic health materials, diesel fuel, and mosquitoes nets were among the materials delivered.

Responding to this huge disaster has been, and will be, challenging. Despite what you may hear, Red Cross aid and expertise are getting through. With your help, we are committed to working through whatever situations confront us and find ways to deliver the relief and comfort so desperately needed. Thank you for your donation to the victims of this tragedy.

Sincerely,

Millie Blair
